

DEEP FEELING ON DRY ISSUE SHOWN

Opposite Mass Meetings Prove
Interest in Question by Enthusiasm at Both.

EACH SIDE IS OPTIMISTIC

Thousands Attend Gatherings
For and Against Referendum on Liquor.

Washington's deep interest in the District prohibition issue, both ways, is proved. Not for many years has such spontaneous concern been manifested in any issue, leaders of both sides said today, as that attested by the crowds attending the "wet" and "dry" mass meetings yesterday afternoon at the National and Poli Theaters.

These leaders said today they believe this interest will have an effect upon Congress, and both sides unite in declaring that it is a proof of the Capital's interest in questions affecting their city.

Thousands Attend.
Thousand attended both meetings. That at the National was so large that an overflow meeting was held in G. A. R. Hall, and an impromptu open-air meeting also was held in the park across the street from the theater. At Poli's the "S. R. O." sign was also out.

William F. Gude presided at the Poli meeting, where pleas for the referendum on prohibition were made by Senator Underwood of Alabama, Simon Wolf, Mgr. William T. Russell, of St. Patrick's Church, and P. T. Moran, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Speakers At National.
The Rev. Dr. Samuel Small, Georgia prohibition orator, and William H. De Lacey, former judge of the Juvenile Court, were the principal speakers at the National Theater, while E. C. Dinwiddie and "Cyclone" Davis, of Texas, talked to the crowd in G. A. R. Hall.

Both mass meetings passed resolutions, that at Poli's Theater for a referendum on the Sheppard prohibition measure because "to deny this right to the citizenship of the District of Columbia is un-American in principle and subversive of the tenets laid down in the foundation of this republic."

Called Impracticable.
The resolutions adopted at the National declared a referendum in the District impracticable because of the lack of standards of qualifications for voting here and because "it would jeopardize the rights of Government employees to vote in their home States if they voted here; it is unprecedented and we see no good reason why the saloon is more sacred than the interests directly controlled by Congress without the referendum."

By Grace of Congress.
"Liquor exists in the District of Columbia by the grace of Congress," declared the Rev. Dr. Samuel Small. "The men who sit in office upon the hill are to blame for the rum license. If they have the power to allow it to live they also have the power to choke it to the death. Congress need not ask the people of the district to decide upon this momentous question. It is up to that august body to close the saloon door, even as they opened it."

Wants No Antagonism.
Judge De Lacey said the meeting was not to stir antagonism against the liquor drinker or the liquor dealer, but to bring both "to a fuller realization of the evils and degradation that flow from the foundations of intoxicating drink."

Speaking at Poli's Theater, Senator Underwood of Alabama said, in part: "This is the first opportunity I have had, after living in your midst as a representative in Congress for more than twenty-two years, to address an audience of the people of Washington."

"There is hardly a capital or a great city in the United States which I have not visited. This being so, I say without a reservation or a doubt that there is no place in the country where there is a more intelligent, a more high-minded or a more virtuous people; where there is less disorder, where you will find more probity, than in the city of Washington."

"Yet, if you had listened to the debates that took place in the United States Senate just before the Christmas holidays, on the question of whether the people of Washington should give voice to some expression of their views in the local government of this city on the excise question, you would have found one of the principal charges brought against the proposition of giving the city of Washington a voice is that the citizenship here is composed of an ignorant and vicious electorate."

Charges Ignored.
"Your newspapers have ignored these charges. I have seen them hinted at here and there in one of your daily papers, but it has not been proclaimed, and probably the majority of your citizens here do not know of these charges."

Senator Underwood said the press and the people of the District "are very unwise if they tamely submit to such ignominy, if they do not resent and resent forcefully these statements before the bar of American public opinion."

"The people of the District of Columbia have held the fair fame of the Nation's Capital in their keeping for many years," said Simon Wolf. "We have never sullied it nor stained it."

BEST TREATMENT FOR CATARRH
REMOVE THE CAUSE

Specialists in Catarrh troubles agree that it is an infection of the blood. Once you get your blood free from impurities—cleansed of the Catarrh poisons—it will be relieved of Catarrh—the dripping in the throat, hawking and spitting, raw sores in the nostrils, and the disagreeable breath. Don't suffer with Catarrh—it is not necessary. Write the Swift Specific Co., Dept. 2, Atlanta, Ga., for free expert medical advice and take S. S. S. at once.—Adv't.

it, and we now ask the privilege of Congress of saying what we shall have here on the prohibition question. This question is not a question of property. It concerns individuals—men, women and children in this city."

Address By Prelate.
Monsignor Russell said: "I am always afraid of that class of people who are better 'Than Thou.' I fear the man who convinces himself that his views are necessarily the views of Almighty God. I fear saints in politics. I some time feel that I would like very much to be able to revise the 'Litany of Saints.' After 'All Ye Saints of Heaven, Intercede For Us,' I would like to insert 'From the Saints on Earth, O Lord, Deliver Us.'"

"I am not speaking for or against prohibition. I am not sure now how I should vote on the proposition of a limited prohibition."

Demands Citizens' Rights.
"I am not a drinking man. But I do demand the inherent rights of every American citizen. To take from us the right to decide this question by referendum—without representation—a personal right which will not infringe upon or jeopardize the rights of other citizens in other parts of the country—I can not regard but as an unjustifiable abuse of authority that is paramount to tyranny."

NOBB YHAT FOR WILSON

To Be Presented by Tennessee Admirer for Warm Weather.

A. J. Hibbett, of Gallatin, Tenn., writing from Hattiesburg, Miss., to Secretary Tumulty, states that just as soon as the straw hat season opens in Washington he is going to send to the President a hand-made hat of rye straw.

"Please let me know when you put your derbies and your felt Kellys away in Washington," Hibbett wrote, "and I will send the President the most original piece of headgear he ever has seen."

The rye straws were grown west of the Mississippi river, and are tied together at each point where they intersect. The maker estimates that 7,000 knots were necessary in the making of the hat.

In his letter, Hibbett said: "First, it was the West and the South which caused the re-election of President Wilson; it was under President Wilson's leadership that laws have been enacted for the benefit of the farmers, and this hat is made of one of the farmer's products."

Mr. Tumulty will notify Mr. Hibbett when the straw hat season arrives.

T. R.'S COMPANION KILLED.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Captain Frederick Courtenay Selous, author and hunter, who accompanied Theodore Roosevelt on his hunting expedition in 1909, has been killed in action in east Africa. He was sixty-five years old.

Captain Selous for many years devoted the greater part of his time to elephant and other hunting trips, exploration and collecting natural history specimens. He entered the present war with the East Africa legion of frontiersmen. In an official dispatch from South Africa, on July 1, he was named for gallant service in the field.

BENEFIT CARD PARTY.

The postponed card party of the Ladies' Aid Society of Garfield Memorial Hospital will be held tomorrow afternoon in the ball room of the New Willard.

"Tiz" For Tired And Sore Feet

Use "Tiz" for puffed-up, burning, aching, calloused feet and corns.

HENRY LOCKETTE

Why go limping around with aching, puffed-up feet—feet so tired, chafed, sore and swollen you can hardly get your shoes on or off? Why don't you get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" from the drug store now and gladden your tortured feet?

"Tiz" makes your feet glow with comfort; takes down swellings and draws the soreness and misery right out of feet that chafe, smart and burn.

"Tiz" instantly stops pain in corns, callouses and bunions. "Tiz" is glorious for tired, aching, sore feet. No more shoe tightness—no more foot trouble.—Adv't.

ROBBERY EPIDEMIC ALONG GOLD COAST

Fashionable Chicago Thrown Into Panic by Series of "Raffles" Burglaries.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—Scores of debutantes and society matrons are rushing to safety deposit vaults with thousands of dollars' worth of pearl necklaces, diamonds and other gems, as a result of the wave of terror sweeping Chicago's "gold coast," where a string of "Raffles" burglaries along Millionaire row has baffled police.

Despite closest surveillance, the robbers have moved about the quiet streets of the fashionable Lake Shore drive with impunity, invading palatial residences and escaping without leaving a trail.

The most daring robbery was that at the home of George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National Bank, when jewels worth thousands were stolen.

Michael Cudahy, millionaire packer; John Borden, explorer and sportsman, and four other residents of the "gold coast" have been victims in three days.

A CORKING LIBRARY.

CLAIMS HE KNOWS
GOOD HEALTH NOW

Henry Lockette, of Bowie, Md., Says Plant Juice Has Restored His Health.

Every cell in the body contains certain inorganic elements, the presence of which are necessary to the proper performance of the cell's functions. When any one of these inorganic elements are lacking, disease will result, and will grow until the missing element is restored, either by nature or by some artificial means. The absence of any of these inorganic salts brings on derangement of the stomach. This affection can be spread to any part of the body, and can soon affect the liver, kidneys, and intestinal tract, and eventually affect the lungs.

Many testimonials are received daily from well-known local people relative to the wonderful curative properties of Plant Juice. One recently from Mr. Henry Lockette, who resides at Bowie, Md., is especially convincing.

"I have suffered with stomach trouble for about a year, and have tried many different medicines, and was under treatment for months at a time, but I did not seem to get any permanent relief. I became so bad that I could not retain any solid food in my stomach, and took nothing but the white of an egg. I had dizzy spells and was terribly nervous. I went down in weight from 158 to 125 pounds. I had read so much about Plant Juice that I decided to give it a trial. It helped me from the start, and now, since I have taken it for several weeks, I am feeling fine; I am not so nervous; have a good appetite. I feel sure that Plant Juice has completely relieved me and I am glad to endorse it."

Such words as these and those of many which have been printed have wide influence, for they come from men of standing and integrity, who have given Plant Juice a fair trial and have been greatly benefited. The Plant Juice Man is at The People's Drug Store, corner of 7th and E streets N. W., where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Adv't.

A Legitimate Business—Entitled to Legislative Protection.

The Corby Compressed Yeast Company is a constructive force to which is admittedly due the present superior quality of bread baked generally throughout the country, through the means of Corby Compressed Yeast, or other yeasts which have been compelled to improve their quality by the competition thus created.

That this is true is established by the character of yeast manufactured, and the price at which it was sold, when we entered the field, as compared with the BETTER QUALITY and LOWER PRICE which prevail today.

Our methods have been those always within the bounds of recognized honorable business ethics. We have aimed at, and succeeded in, producing the highest grade of yeast—creating a new standard, and maintaining it. We have marketed our product always upon a fair and commensurate basis of price, and claim the just protection to which strict obedience to the laws of state and right is entitled.

We are makers of compressed yeast—the most important ingredient in bread-making. But in the process prescribed by government regulation, entirely beyond our control, alcohol is simultaneously produced. The creation of a yeast cell creates also a molecule of alcohol. In conformity with United States Internal Revenue laws this by-product is preserved and refined, paying its tax of approximately $2.10 per liquid gallon into the public treasury.

To many minds alcohol is inseparably associated with beverages. As a matter of fact that is the least of its uses, as has been shown by the almost limitless list of demands from the arts, sciences and manufactures which could not be developed without this fundamental agent—and which legitimizes its production for these technical purposes.

Its abuse is an altogether different question—and one which has no relation to, nor connection with, the production of alcohol at the Corby Yeast plant.

Since the establishment of this yeast plant eleven years ago we have sought and found a market for the alcoholic by-product EXCLUSIVELY among the arts, sciences and manufactures. Even though at a less inviting price; but always with definite knowledge, through specific agreement, as to its use, as detailed in Bulletin No. 1—"The Manufacture of Yeast and Its Necessary By-product."—The Washington Times, Jan. 4th.

Bulletin No. 2—"Pure Yeast Was Unknown in the United States Until Made by the Corby Company."—The Washington Times, Jan. 5th.

Bulletin No. 3—"The Business of the Corby Compressed Yeast Company, and Its Industrial Magnitude."—The Washington Times, Jan. 6th.

Bulletin No. 4—"The Importance of Yeast—and What Corby Compressed Yeast Means to the Baking Trade."—The Washington Times, Jan. 7th.

This has been our voluntary policy—a position we deem it only just and fair to make plain to the public, and to submit, together with the RECOGNIZED and UNIVERSALLY APPROVED USES OF ALCOHOL, for consideration in connection with pending legislation.
